SVEN HEDIN'S JOURNEY.

GRAPHIC STORY OF ADVENTURE.

Dr. Sven Hedin has delivered an address before the Geographical Society on the route and incidents of the three years' journey which he took in those deserts of Asia that lie east of Afghanistan and Kashmir, north of the Indian Empire, and in the unexplored southern territories of Russia. Thirteen hundred miles down the sinuous Tarim, across the desert of Gobi, over the ranges which stretch like gridiron bars running east to west across the path of the traveler who would go north or south to Tibet, through a part of Tibet itself—these were some of Dr. Hedin's wanderings.

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

They had many hardships, especially in the high valleys of the great Asiatic Himalayan range, where they always were at altitudes greater than that of Mont Blanc. The cold in the deserts was intense in winter.

On February 18, at 5 a.m. the explorer, came the first blizzard of the year, and it was so bitterly cold that we had to go on foot to prevent ourselves from being frozen to death. At night we were only able to make a little tea at the cost of two of the ten-poles with which to make the fire. On the 19th the storm still continued to rage; but as we had no firewood of any description whatever, we were obliged to content ourselves with sucking small pieces of ice and munching dry bread—hardly a fitting repast for such truly Arctic weather as we were then experiencing. The tracks of wild camels were exceptionally frequent, and I observed them with the greatest interest, and noted them down on my map-sheet; they might later on point to important conclusions. Our situation was now critical. Our stock of ice was exhausted, and the camels had not drunk a drop of water for twelve days. Fortunately, that same evening we reached a spot where the wild camel tracks all converged into one common track, which eventually led into a valley, in the beginning of which, sure enough, there was a salt-well, surrounded by a belt of fresh-water ice a few inches thick. As fuel also was to be had in the same place, we stayed there two days, the camels meanwhile quenching their thirst by crunching the ice, hewed to pieces for them.

DESERT MANUSCRIPTS.

Among the deeply interesting and important archaeological discoveries was that of a buried link of civilisation, which may once have bound Western China and Eastern Turkestan together by a thriving inhabited region. In the half-buried cities of these deserts, manuscripts and coins were found, and one of the manuscripts speaks of an army which was to be met at the frontier "by forty officials"—a fair-sized army, therefore. But how was the agriculture of this region carried on? How was it possible to carry it on? Not one rivulet flows down from the Kuruk-tagh mountains, not one drop of rain ever falls from the sky. Canals, or irrigation aqia, similar to those which are found all over Eastern Turkestan at the present day, must have been made from the river which flowed into Lopnor. The gra-banks spoken of still exist in every town in Eastern Turkestan, under the control of the Chinese authorities, and serve the purpose of securing an equal distribution of bread among the natives. I unearthed four villages only, one of them consisting of not more than nineteen houses; but there is no reason why the desert should not yield many other valuable archaeological remains. The mention of forty officials, a military expedition, and many farms, point to the inference that Lou-lan was a well-peopled region. Possibly the people dwelt in perishable reed-huts, as they do at the present day.

IN THE LAND OF THIBET.

Among the last and by no means the most pleasant of his experiences was the attempt to penetrate Tibet. He achieved part of his purpose, but he did not get to Lhasa, the holy city, and all the time he was in the country his caravan and a sort of covering escort of Tibetan servants watched one another like two cats. The attitude of the Tibetans towards strangers may be gathered from the following experience:—Later on that same day there was another rift in the lute. Hadyeh Tsering and Yunduk Tsering, two of the Dalai Lama's ministers or members of his deveshung (or council) in Lhasa, came direct from the holy city, bringing with them 500 mounted men and against such a force I had no inclination to declare war. These officials read to me a proclamation from the Dalai Lama, which, among other things, contained the following passage:—"Let letters be sent with all speed to Namsu and Naktang, that no Russian can have permission to travel on any of the roads of Nankichu and onwards as far as my kingdom extends. Let letters be sent to all the chieftains. Watch the frontiers of Naktang. It is absolutely essential to guard strictly every part of the country. It is entirely unnecessary that any European shall enter into the kingdom of the holy books and spy out the land. In your provinces they have nothing whatsoever to do. If they say they have, then know they must not travel to Lhasa. And if they do travel, then shall you lose your head. See to it that they turn back by the way they came."

Dr. Sven Hedin and the Tibetans parted with honours even. He did not see his Holy City; but he crossed their country in order to reach his goal and his journey's end in India.

THE WEATHER.

The following report is from Mr. F. G. Figg, Acting Director of the Hongkong Observatory:—

On the 16th at 12.5 p.m. The barometer has fallen over E. Japan and the E. coast of China, risen on the S. coast.

Pressure is high over Central China, and low to the S. and also to the N.E. of Japan.

Fresh N. winds along the China coast and strong monsoon over the N. part of the China Sea.

Forecast—fresh N. winds; fair.

HOW THE CUNARD LINE ORIGINATED.

The inception of the Cunard Line of steamers was due to Samuel Cunard, a native of Nova Scotia, born in 1838. In 1838 he came to England, filled with an idea of originating a Transatlantic service. He sought out Mr. Robert Napier, the famous Cy-Cle shipbuilder, an eccentric man whose hobby was mechanical invention—the Napier coffee machine is one of the products of his fertile brain—though he took good care not to let his familiar pursuits interfere with his ordinary work. A bargain was struck and the foundations of the now famous fleet were laid down. Four steamers were constructed, and so well did they serve their purpose that others were added. Safety was ever the motto of the Cunard, whose proud boast it was that they never lost a passenger's life. Old though the line is, it is not our premier one, though it stands second on the list. The Peninsular and Oriental claims seniority by three years.

CHINA'S DEBT TO ITALY.

Of the indemnity of one milliard and eight hundred and seventy-five million francs which China owes to the signatory Powers of the Treaty of Peking of the 7th of September, 1901, Italy is expecting to receive seventy-five millions.

Of this one portion will go to cover the expenses of the Italian Expedition, and the other to missionaries, contractors, miners, families of those who lost their lives in the service of their country in China, and certain other private persons who suffered material loss by the war. All these creditors will be forced to wait thirty-nine years before seeing their debts paid to them.

The Patria observes that nearly all the Powers but Italy immediately recognised the difference which existed between indemnity due to the Government and that due to private individuals, and took steps, either by means of loans, like France, or through payments in regular instalments, like Great Britain and Germany, whereby the private creditors were in a position to receive money in advance on what was owed to them. The missionaries, who want to rebuild their churches, houses, and hospitals, are no more able to wait thirty-nine years than are the families left unprotected for by the soldiers who fell in battle.

The journal calls on the Italian Government to take some steps in this matter, and also to see that the dignity of Italy be properly asserted in China, where Italy's prestige seems to be on the wane rather than on the increase. It quotes various incidents in support of this assertion, and concludes as follows:—

"The facts demonstrate that Italy must not appear, not even in China, to be of less importance than other Powers, which, by conciliating public with private interests, have provided for the maintenance of their rights and for the prompt satisfaction of obligations which involve also a question of national dignity."

The negotiations which have for some time been in progress for the establishment of a branch of the Ehrhardt factory in Italy and the acquisition of the Ansaldo Arsenal, at Genoa, are said to have fallen through. It appears that the terms demanded on either side were such as neither party could consent to; but purporters are now proceeding, in which the firm of Krupp is interested, which may have a better result.

"CIRCLING the circle" is the name given to the newest development of the music-hall cycling craze. As shown at the All-India it is a daring and thrilling performance—a thrill of several minutes. It was taken to England by the well-known Continental impresario, M. Galenzi, who introduced Otero, Cleo de Merode, and Guerrero to an English audience. The trick is performed by the Noiset Troupe—a Belgian quartette. A tiny circular track on "slits," set at a rake of 60 degrees, encloses the riders.
Then, while they are thundering round on their bicycles, the whole concert is lifted some yards in the air and the riders hang to the rails of the bottomless circle like flies to a ceiling.

God Save the King.

THE "Chin Times" learns from an authoritative source that negotiations for the purchase of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Co. by the Imperial China Government have been broken off and the project abandoned. Powerful influences were brought to bear to prevent the sale, which would probably not have conducted to the good fortune of the company.

IN handing back the dockyard at Fongku the Russians, says the Fish, made the stipulation that Russian vessels should be allowed to dock there whenever they required to. They also demanded that Russian vessels should be allowed to anchor in the river near the docks.
This last stipulation, the Viceroy said, would have to depend entirely on whether the anchorage was required for Chinese vessels.—

THE NAVY LEAGUE.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual general meeting of the members and associates of the Hongkong branch of the Navy League was held last evening in the City Hall. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., presided, and there were also present: Messrs.
N. Mumford, E. H. Sharp, Rev. France, B.
Layton, M. W. Stale, A. R. Lowe, R. C.
Wilcox, Gershom Stewart, W. A. Cruickshank, G. C. Anderson (hon. secretary), and others. After the Hon. Secretary had read the notice convening the meeting and also the minutes of the last meeting, the Chairman moved the adoption of the report (already published in these columns) which he took as read. From it they could see that the Hongkong branch of the Navy League had been active, energetic and done good work since they last met. The meeting last year was held on the 28th April, but after due deliberation the meeting this year had been held earlier, as the Committee hoped that by such means a better attendance would be ensured; but it would appear that in Hongkong nothing less exciting than new dock schemes, or the malaria mosquito question could bring together a large attendance. From the report, it could be seen that a prize of £50 had been offered by the committee to the commander-in-chief of this station for the encouragement of gunnery in the ships. The prize was offered absolutely unconditionally and without restriction, and it was regrettable to inform them that, after the delay of some months, which he presumed was due to the fact that the Admiral desired to communicate with the home authorities, they were informed that the offer was declined with thanks.
It seemed regrettable that the authorities should have deemed it fit to refuse the offer, because there was no doubt, and he felt sure he had the support of his audience, that in the next naval struggle accurate marksmanship would play an important part. At present, in England, a great deal of enthusiasm had been witnessed in the formation of rifle clubs, and the nation has, no doubt, realized that men should not merely be provided with guns, but were expected to use them with good effect (Hear, hear). If that maxim held good on land, how much more necessary and imperative was it that gunnery practice and accurate marksmanship on board ship should be maintained. A miss might possibly have a great bearing in the decision of big naval actions. It could also be seen that the Committee had for many years been pegging away upon the subject of piracy on the West River which they considered was a very important subject. He pointed out that not only had it a bearing on the trade of this port, but it had to be viewed from a political as well as from a naval point of view.
Disturbances and troubles in the adjacent provinces ought to be kept within limits as far as possible, and there was no doubt that if disturbances of such a nature went unchecked, certain powers, as well as themselves, would be tempted to interfere in the internal affairs of China.

Before things got to that stage, vigorous steps ought to be taken to check and keep piracy within due limits. He was glad to see that the Governor had interested himself in this matter, and expressed the hope that effective action would be taken and prevent the occurrence of piracies in future. Regarding Wei-hai-wei, he stated that since the meeting last year, various papers had been laid on the table in the House of Commons by Lord Cranborne from which it could be seen that the idea of making and converting Wei-hai-wei into an armed port, had been abandoned. It did not altogether know whether that was a desirable point or not, but presumed that in so doing the authorities were going to do their utmost to place Hongkong in an absolute safe position (applause) by placing modern powerful B.L. Guns in the forts (applause). Naval strategy consisted in keeping the fleet at sea, and pursuing or watching the enemies' movement. It appeared to him that it was absolutely necessary that Hongkong, as a naval base, should be placed in such a position, during the absence of the fleet, as to be capable of protecting and defending herself. It was his earnest wish to see the forts at Devil's Peak proceeded with very shortly, but, so far as he had been able to see for himself, very little had been done in the matter. He hoped that ere long guns would be mounted there, as there was no doubt it was a very important position for the defence of the Colony. They would have some amongst them Mr. H. F. Wyatt, who is coming out as an envoy of the Navy League in London and was doing the work purely out of patriotism, and receiving no remuneration whatever for his efforts. They had to thank Messrs. Gibb, Livingston and Company, agents of the Eastern and Australian line, and Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, agents for the China Navigation S.S. Co., for having promised to give a free passage to Mr. Wyatt from Japan to Australia (applause). One point in connection with Mr. Wyatt's visit in Canada, to which he drew attention was the fact that at the Board of Trade meeting held in Montreal, all the members present unanimously joined the Navy League, and no less than three branches were formed in Canada (applause). It was his earnest hope that the League here should get more members and associates. At present there are 257 members and 38 associates.
He considered that this was far from being satisfactory, having regard to the fact that there is an adult British male population in the Colony of 1,200 people. It was their duty especially seeing the importance of strengthening the hands of the Government, to do all in their power to secure more members and associates out here. He also pointed out that the head office of the Navy League had more than once during the past year written out minding the addition of new members and associates, and it was a quarter of the subscriptions was sent home, the League desired more funds for carrying out its purposes and objects. It had been said by some "What is the use of the Navy League?" Are there not people who are paid to look after these things? Why should we trouble ourselves about such things? In answer to these questions a local illustration would suffice to show that that was a fallacy. He referred to the water question (applause). For years past there has been known as the Water Authority (laughter), a being whose duty it was to provide sufficient water for the use of the public.
Those people who took up the position that because a thing was paid for to be looked after therefore the public got it, it would, he supposed, be a queer thing because the Water Authority was paid to get the Colony a sufficient supply of water therefore we had plenty of water. The absurdity of adopting such a line of argument was obvious. (Applause). This water question also furnished a parallel to the action of the Navy League, because as had been seen from the correspondence in the Press during the past few months people who considered they had not got a sufficient water supply agitated and wrote to the Press and the Water Authority demanding that they should receive an adequate supply of water. The Navy League was in exactly the same position. The League was convinced—and they were supported upon that point by such authorities as Lord Charles Beresford, Admiral Rawson, Admiral Hood, and Admiral Fremantle—that the supply of battleships and cruisers was insufficient, and was endeavouring, through the Press and by questions in the House of Commons, to secure that we should obtain a sufficient naval strength to enable us to maintain the peace throughout the world so very important to us as a trading Power (Hear, hear).
The Navy League was by no means a jingo body. The sole aim and object of this League was to the effect that Great Britain should maintain such a standard of efficiency and strength in her naval line, as to carry on her wide-world commerce in a comparative sphere of security and safety. That good work had been done by the League went without saying, for the mention of only one small, but important matter would suffice to prove it. He referred to the use of obsolete warships, and said that some two years ago, there were on the Navy List, some 23 ships of an obsolete type, armed with muzzle-loading guns, and stated that these ships were nothing more nor less than death-traps. For over two years the League had worked on that subject, and two months ago it was able to announce that every one of those dangerous and inefficient ships had been struck off the list. (Applause). That was a very important result, and contended that the Navy League's aim had been to educate the people so that they might be induced to bring pressure upon the Government to provide and maintain efficient and sufficient ships. He urged the British community of Hongkong to join the League, and concluded by proposing the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr. A. R. Awe, seconded, and the motion was agreed to.

The Chairman moved that the sum of $50 be voted from the funds of the League in aid of the Soldiers and Sailors Home, Arsenal Street, where, he explained useful work was being carried on.

This was unanimously carried.

Mr. Gershom Stewart proposed and Mr. N.
Mumford seconded, that Mr. Pollock be elected Chairman for the ensuing year. Carried.

The Committee was afterwards re-elected, and the proceedings ended with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

COLLISION AT CAPSIMUM.

At about eight o'clock on the night of the 14th inst. the German steamer Hansa, owned by the Tung Kee Company, left the harbour bound for Canton, and while passing Cap-simum she met a native trading junk and a collision seemed imminent. Captain Lorenzen of the Hansa on seeing the junk did all in his power to avoid running into the craft, but as the steering of the junk was bad, a collision occurred. The junk which was laden with a general cargo commenced to take in water, and in a few minutes she sank to the bottom of the deep and narrow channel. Capt. Lorenzen had all his men called on deck, and life boats were lowered, and the Chinese crew rescued.
In all, nineteen men and a woman were picked up and taken on board the Hansa, which at once commenced to steer back to Hongkong.
Here the matter was reported to the police, who were informed that no lives had been lost.
The master of the junk estimated his loss to be a little over $5,000.

REPUTATES RUMOURS.

BERLIN, 15th Jan., 12.53 p.m.

Baron Speck von Sternburg, who has been appointed Chargé d'Affaires in Washington consequent upon the resignation of Dr. Theodor von Holleben, has been interviewed. He repudiates the rumours that von Holleben's return to Europe was owing to his being recalled for want of tact in diplomatic affairs, and states that the simple fact is that he applied for furlough on account of illness through overwork.

South Africa.

LONDON, January 14th.

Mr. Chamberlain and the leaders of the mining community have agreed to a war contribution of £30,000,000 and furthermore that the mining industry will give a guarantee for the loan of £30,000,000 for reproductive works in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony.

The United States and the Chinese Indemnity.

China has suggested to Washington that if the Powers insist on a gold indemnity she should be allowed to collect her customs dues in gold. The United States reply that China having agreed to a silver indemnity she is unable to give her assent.

Great Britain has proposed a reduction in the instalments by the prolongation of the period of forty years in which the total is at present payable.

CEYLON PEARL FISHERY.

The Colonial Secretary has forwarded to us a copy of a Ceylon Government Gazette extraordinary containing the following notification respecting the Pearl Fishery of 1903:

Notice is hereby given that a Pearl Fishery will take place at Marichchikaddi, in the Island of Ceylon, on or about 22nd February, 1903.

The banks to be fished are the South-East Cheval Pair estimated to contain 40,000 oysters, sufficient to employ 120 boats for forty days, with average loads of 10,000 oysters each, each boat being fully manned with divers; the East Cheval Pair, estimated to contain 11,000,000 oysters, sufficient to employ 28 boats for forty days, with average loads of 10,000 oysters each, each boat being fully manned with divers; the North-East Cheval Pair estimated to contain 130,000 oysters, sufficient to employ 32 boats for forty days, with average loads of 10,000 oysters each, each boat being fully manned with divers; the Priya Pair Kurru, estimated to contain 8,000,000 oysters, sufficient to employ 20 boats for forty days, with average loads of 10,000 oysters each, each boat being fully manned with divers.

It is therefore necessary that such boat owners and divers as may wish to be employed at the said fishery should be at Marichchikaddi by the 17th February next, and it is notified that the first day's fishing will take place on the first favourable day after the 22nd February.

Marichchikaddi is on the mainland, eight miles by sea south of Sillavaturai, and supplies of good water and provisions can be obtained there.

The fishery will be conducted on account of Government, and the oysters put up to sale in such lots as may be deemed expedient.

The arrangements of the fishery will be the same as have been usual on similar occasions.

ASK for ASAHI JAPANESE BEER—G. Girault.

Persons attending the Fishery Camp from India will be permitted to travel to Ceylon by either of the following routes:—(1) Tuticorin to Colombo, or (2) Paumotu to Marichchikaddi, and by no other.

Arrangements will be made, as at the last fishery, for travellers to proceed from Paumotu direct to the Camp. The only restriction imposed on travellers by the Paumotu route will be inspection by the Medical Officer at Paumotu.

All payments to be made in ready money in Ceylon currency.

Drafts on the banks in Colombo or bills on the agents of this Government in India, at ten days' sight, will be taken, on letters of credit being produced, to warrant the drawing of such drafts or bills.

For the convenience of purchasers, the Treasurer at Colombo and the different Government Agents of Provinces will be authorized to receive cash deposits from parties intending to become purchasers, and receipts of these officers will be taken in payment of any sums due on account of the fishery.

No deposit will be received for a less sum than Rs. 250.

By His Excellency the Governor's command EVERARD H. THURM, Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Secretary's Office, Colombo, December 22, 1902.

IN CHARITY'S CAUSE.

VARIETY ENTERTAINMENT.

It is not often that the Theatre Royal is crowded with such a large and distinguished audience as that which assembled there last evening to witness a variety concert in aid of the funds of the Arsenal Street Sailors and Soldiers Institute. H.E. the Governor, Lady Blake and Miss Blake occupied one of the boxes, while among others present were noticed Commodore and Mrs. Robinson, Rear-Admiral H. T. Grenfell, and Sir W. M. Goodman and Lady Goodman. The Hon. F. H. May, who has worked hard to secure the success of the entertainment, was busy behind the scenes, where he was ably assisted by Lieut. Heycock, R.M.L.I., who also conducted the operations on the stage and umpired in the first four items of the programme. F. E. McKerrill, of H.M.S. Ocean, opened the proceedings with a display of tonnage and hulls swinging for which he was frequently and loudly applauded. Then followed bayonet, bayonet by R.M.A. runners C. Cr. Clifford, D. McKay, J. Clark, F. Kemp, H. Herbert and C. Truing, of H.M.S. Albion, several of whom had been in the Highland Light Infantry and the Grenadier Guards at the Military Tournament at the Agricultural Hall a year or so ago. C. Dymally, O.S., and F. Layton, A. B. of H.M.S. Albion, gave a smart exhibition of sparring, after which members of the Albion engaged in bouts with single sticks. The string band of the Albion, under the baton of Signor De Robertis played several selections, much to the delight of the audience, and the "Wizard of Kwangtung" and the "Pride of seven years of age" mystified the house with clever conjuring, while a troupe of acrobats appeared to go unopposedly near breaking their necks and backs. It was a good entertainment and everyone should be pleased with the result.

THE CRISIS IN KWANGSI.

The new Governor of Kwangsi, Wang Chih-chun, who since taking over his seals of office in June last, has practically done nothing towards suppressing the rebellion in that province, is reported (says the N. C. D. News) to be almost surrounded by rebels, although, as may perhaps be remembered by readers of these "Notes," he was appointed to that post by the Empress Dowager in consequence of his boastful language and declaration to her Majesty of his ability to deal with the rebellion in the South at short notice. Governor Wang took down South with him quite 6,000 picked Hunanese troops, fellow-provincials of his and well-armed in fact, with the 25,000 or so Hunanese "braves" then opposing the rebel forces, he expected could easily restore order in the province under his "exceptional" generalship. But the people of Kwangsi are of entirely different calibre from those of the province north of them, and in the present instance, are experienced at the oppressions of the avaricious and unscrupulous officials amongst them, and are, moreover, driven to rebellion by flood, drought and famine. Governor Wang and his Mandarins would require on or twenty times the forces at their command to keep even the cities they occupy from falling to the desperate inhabitants of Kwangsi, who, by the way, are much better armed than the soldiers—one-half of whom secretly sympathize with them. Eye-witnesses who have been to Nanning and other places in Kwangsi declare that almost the whole province is hostile against the Government and the troops appear more like men keeping guard in a foreign kingdom than camped in their own country. To those who know, it seems that it is not a question of force majeure that will restore peace to Kwangsi, but a wholesale remission of taxes for three years, generous Government help financially, and a system of public works where the labouring may get food in return for labour. Haste is needed for this even, for if Kwangsi succumbs to the Government her example will certainly be followed by at least six more provinces, simultaneously.

KAISER AS COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER.

Truth generally has something to say regarding the topic of the day. This is just to hand—

My minister reasons, more or less speculatively, were discovered for the Kaiser's recent visit to England, but, as often happens in these cases, the true one was overlooked. At any rate, whatever object his Majesty may have had in view he seems to have had an eye to business, pure and simple. An article in the Kölnische Zeitung, translated in the Chinist and Prince, describes the means taken by him while at Sandringham to introduce "the different spirit appliances for lighting, cooking, &c.," made in Germany. The appliances were brought over from Berlin, and installed by a German expert; but the Emperor, after his visit, speedily owned the expert, took the business into his own hands, translated the manufacturer's catalogues and price-lists, and lectured on the use of the apparatus, giving practical demonstrations of the use of lamps, cooking-stoves, the heating of flat-irons and curling-tongs, and so forth. His Majesty pointed out the value of the innovation for lighting stables, &c., and explained how incandescent spirit on the German system was likely to supersede all other power in motor-cars. So far as I know, but it is necessary to speak with caution, this is the first appearance of the German Emperor as a commercial traveller. But it will be seen in a moment that it opens up an entirely new field of usefulness for Royalty. It must be the hope of every Nation in these days of severe foreign competition that when the Imperial visit is returned, our own Sovereign will take a few samples of British goods with him for introduction to the German market.

THE NANKING CATASTROPHE.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

As reported in our columns of the 12th inst. a terrible catastrophe occurred at Nanking whereby 100 Chinese were said to have been killed. Further particulars are now to hand, the Shanghai Mercury of the 12th inst., containing the following:

News was received here late this morning of a terrible disaster at Nanking this morning. Hon. John Goodnow, U. S. Consul-General, has placed "at our disposal" the following telegram:

Nanking, 12th Jan., 1.56 p.m.

Through a landslide at Hsialowan, Messrs. Butterfield and Swire's Dock (bunding?) and godown have been sunk in the River. It is estimated that 100 Chinese have been drowned. Messrs. Butterfield and Swire have only recently finished filling in the river bank at the upper end of the anchorage, building a face stone bunding to keep it in place; a bulk, connected with the bunding by a bridge, provided an anchorage for their steamers in deep water, only a few yards from the shore. Upon the made ground, occupying the position formerly washed by the river, they had built two fairly large godowns for their cargoes. From the above telegram it appears that the slope of the river was too great to support the bunding, and that this must have slipped into the river, displacing the newly filled-in earth sufficiently to cause the godowns to collapse.

If the loss of life be as reported, the accident must have happened either as the steamer was coming alongside or when she was at the bulk. As there is no news of the steamer being injured, the former was probably the case.

The Ostasiatische Lloyd has received the following telegram:

A part of the Hsialowan Bund has collapsed. 100 Chinese have perished. Butterfield and Swire's godown, with 114,000 worth of goods, has been destroyed.

THE EXPORT OF RICE.

The Viceroy at Nanking has notified the Consular Body that after the 28th of January the general export of rice from Shanghai will again be prohibited, and that all permits to export which have been issued but not used will, from that date, be cancelled. Further that after that date, permits which may be granted to a limited extent will be charged for at the rate of 200 cash per picul.

These official tamperings with the movements of rice are always suspicious, remarks the N. C. D. News, and it is a curious coincidence that the issue of this notice should coincide with the termination of H. E. Sheng Kungwan's period of deep mourning for his father. With all respect for H. E. Chang Chih-tung, it must be distinctly stated that his action in this case is entirely ultra vires. Section 8 of the Rules attached to the Treaty of Tientsin is perfectly clear on the subject:

"The export of rice and all other grain whatsoever, native or foreign, no matter where grown or whence imported, to any foreign port, is prohibited; but these commodities may be carried by British merchant ships from one of the open ports of China to another, under the same conditions in respect of security as cash, on payment at the port of shipment of the duty specified in the Tariff." The conditions referred to are given in the previous section; in the following quotation we have substituted the word "rice" for "cash":

"The shipper shall give notice of the amount of rice he desires to ship, and the port of its destination, and shall bind himself, either by a bond with two sufficient sureties, or by depositing such other security as may be deemed by the Customs satisfactory, to return, within six months from the date of clearance, to the collector at the port of shipment, the certificate issued by him, with an acknowledgment thereon of the receipt of the rice at the port of destination by the collector at that port, who shall thereto affix his seal."

There is nothing here justifying the prohibition of the export of rice construed into making permits from the Tientsin necessary, and nothing empowering him to impose a "squeeze" of 200 cash a picul. It is of course understood that the whole rice trade is in the hands of Chinese merchants, and H. E. Chang Chih-tung may think that it does not concern British merchants at all, but the carrying of the rice is done almost entirely in British steamers, and British shipowners are very seriously concerned by this prohibition.

"We know that the Acting British Consul-General, Mr. R. W. Mansfield, has taken the matter up, and it is probable that a strong protest will be made by the Consular Body against this imposition, which, in addition to being a breach of the Treaty, is economically unsound. It must be confessed, however, that it is very doubtful whether any protest from Shanghai against H. E. Chang Chih-tung's action will have any effect; the British Chargé d'Affaires will no doubt make a representation to the Waiwu Pu, and the Waiwu Pu may be moved to send a remonstrance to H. E. Chang Chih-tung, but that the latter will pay any attention to any representation from the feeble body that has superseded the old Tsungli Yamen, is hardly to be expected. The trouble about these prohibitions to export rice is that their real intention is to provide a means of making money for the officials, who export rice themselves through their underlings, while the prohibition is in force, or sell permits to favoured exporters. The charge of 200 cash a picul which the Tsungli Yamen proposes to make on the permits, which may be granted to a limited extent after the prohibition goes into operation, will bring him in the neat little sum of at least four thousand taels on every cargo of twenty thousand piculs.

We do not forget that by Article XIV of the Treaty of Shanghai, "in cases of expected scarcity or famine from whatsoever cause in any district, the Chinese Government shall, on giving twenty-one days' notice, be at liberty to prohibit the shipment of rice and other grain from such district." But there must be, it will be seen, expected scarcity or famine; and the article contains full safeguards to prevent the prohibition being used for the enrichment of the officials: "If during the existence of this prohibition, any shipment of rice or grain is allowed by the authorities, the prohibition shall, ipso facto, be considered cancelled and shall not be reimposed until six weeks' notice has been given." An exception is made in favour of Tribute and Army rice, as to which the Government must state, when the prohibition is notified, if they have any to ship and if so, how much, and the Customs shall keep a record of the amount of it shipped or landed. Then comes a straitforward engagement: "The Chinese Government undertake that no rice, other than Tribute and Army rice belonging to the Government, shall be shipped during the period of prohibition." We have recapitulated these points because it might be urged that H. E. Chang Chih-tung was only anticipating the enforcement of the Treaty of Shanghai. It will be seen that the notification with which this article commences is not in consonance either with the Treaty of Tientsin or that of Shanghai.

ADMIRALTY GENEROSITY.

HANDY-MEN ENTITLED TO A PENNY.

A return has recently been made to Parliament showing the Unclaimed Shares of all Prize Money, Slave and Pirate Bounties, Salvage Awards, Parliamentary Grants, Gratuities, and other Moneys, distributed by the Admiralty from Jan. 1, 1855, to March 31, 1902. The first fifty-six pages are occupied with the names of those who are entitled to prize-money, grants, &c., for the China War, 1856-1860. Most of these are probably dead, and the living remainder are not of the class who read Government Blue Books, and are not likely to become acquainted by this means of the fact that money is lying at their disposal at the Admiralty. Some of the sums are absurdly small. For instance, a private of the Royal Marines is entitled to 4d. as his share of the "Canton booty"; a captain's cook of the Pique has 1s. 5d. lying at his credit for "other captures." "Other captures" would seem to have been very trivial; for under this head such amounts as 9d. are unclaimed by a leading seaman of the Tribune, 8d. by a boy of the Pique, and 7d. by an A.B. of the Cruiser. Equally as curious in some respects is the "Return of the Unclaimed Naval Prize Money, &c., other than for China 1856-1860," which extends over more than 200 pages. A good proportion of the items refer to amounts under £1, and a large number under 1s. The idea of a Chinaman called "Washing Day" coming from China to receive 4d., an Indian called "Snowball" from India to receive 3d., or a negro from the West Coast of Africa called "Ginger Pop" to get 2d., must be regarded as mildly humorous. A tabulated statement shows that there are quite a large number of "handy-men" entitled to receive 1d.

OWING to the insufficiency of accommodation in the present building and the increasing demand for admission, it has been found necessary to extend the wings of the main building and to enlarge the Chinese department by an additional storey with two wings. The estimated cost will amount to over $5,000. To cover these expenses we Appeal to the liberality of all friends of Education. The establishment has been in existence for the last 25 years and is open to all classes. Much of the clerical work of the city is carried on by its past pupils. As this is the first time we have applied for assistance we expect a generous response. The names of our most liberal Benefactors will be inscribed upon marble tablets, as a lasting testimony of their generosity.
